Balancing of Budget Seen as Hope to Aid Business In Current Slump.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The government was committed today through its chief fiscal officer to a program of budget-balancing retrenchment to meet the drop in business activity.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, president of the United States, said in a speech here last night that the government would not permit the drop in business activity to become a "four-pronged attack."

He advocated matching income and outgo by cutting nearly $700,000,000 from next year's expenditures, mainly in the fields of highways, relief, public works and agricultural aid, and not by raising taxes.

In no event, he added, would the administration "allow anyone to starve" nor would it drop any of its policies.

He spoke before the Academy of Political Science, and a small section of his dinner guests were waiting outside to hear him.

The Wall Street effect of the speech was expected to be delayed by the market holiday. Various of the market makers here declined comment.

One of the speakers, a Morgan partner, said his belief was that the secretary would give a "fair trial" to the proposals for repeal or modification of the undistributed profits tax, of which many businessmen have complained.

He said scattered fears.

City, Nation Stand Silent, Honor Vets

Parade Tonight Climaxes
Mansfield's Armistice Day Observance.

Mansfield today joined the nation in a brief period of silence at 11 a. m. to honor the soldiers for whom the signing of the Armistice at that same hour 19 years ago, came too late.

Here, and over the nation, business and industry paused for a few minutes so that men and women might remember the tremendous price that is paid for war.

Banks, city and county offices were closed and the American Legion held open house for veterans at the Legion home at 6 o'clock, and the annual parade at 7:30 this evening will climax the day's activities in Mansfield.

Services at Park.

At 11 a. m. today, the hour set for the silent tribute, representatives of the Legion and its auxiliary, gathered at the Doughboy monument in Central park where services for the war dead were held.

In Arlington cemetery, Washington, the white marble tomb of the Unknown Soldier, was the focal point of the nation's Armistice day tribute to its soldier dead.

As in other years, the program called for the president to lay a wreath on the symbolic tomb high above the Potomac river, and the American Legion had charge of the services here, with its national commander, Daniel J. Donnelly, as the chief of ceremonies.

In New York City, General John J. Pershing, wartime leader of the American military forces in France, was escorted from a motorcade to the national capital.

A 10-gun salute from the Battery was in sharp contrast to the period of silence in the city which followed a few hours later.

Nor was the wartime president forgotten. At Washington a cathedral in the national capital, memorial services were conducted for Woodrow Wilson. This is an annual service and is attended by the president's widow and members of his family.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt tonight will attend a benefit ball given by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

SHERIFF GIVEN TRIAL RESPITE

Murder Hearing Recessed For Holiday; State Fails to Show Quorum Evidence.

POMEROY.—(AP)—The second degree murder trial of Sheriff Roscoe O. Fowler was in adjournment today in observance of Armistice day, but interest among spectators who have been crowding Meigs county courthouse high above the big bend of the Ohio river remained unabated.

Highlighting trial events to date was the absence of testimony showing that a quarrel took place between the Democratic sheriff and Lyle Williamson, the Republican political leader whom the state contends was fatally injured by a blackjack blow after he left a fraternal party early on the Sunday morning of June 27.

John Circle, vice president of the club where the party was staged, testified yesterday that Williamson danced with Mrs. Marcella Hodge, then deputy clerk of the county treasurer's office, whom the sheriff had escorted to the party with Miss Annette Ashworth, his secretary.

Circle, the sheriff make any sign of protest or remonstrance as Lyle took Marcella by the arm and led her to the door? "asked Defense Attorney D. Curtis Reed of Columbus.

"No," replied Circle.

Strive to Keep County Chapter
Out in Front in State as Annual Roll Call Opens.

Chairman Urges Volunteers to Maintain 'Unusual' Record
Both in Ohio, Nation.

The Richland County chapter of the Red Cross today picked up the challenge issued last night by Roll Call Chairman W. J. Locke to maintain its high place in the state and nation as "an unusual chapter" and the chapter having the highest membership percentage in Ohio.

More than 500 workers in the city and county today rallied to the challenge sounded last night in the annual Roll Call dinner, when they formally elected the 21st Red Cross Roll Call by casting homes, business places, and farms in an effort to enlist 9,000 members in the Richland county chapter.

Divided Into Districts.

Three vice chairmen working under Locke's direction, have the city and county organized into precincts and districts. W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools in the city, was elected vice chairman to Locke; Mrs. J. A. Pierce as chairman of city precincts and Mrs. George Burns as chairman of county precincts.

Locke, who was elected chairman of the Roll Call, said he hoped the chapter would be able to maintain its high place in the state and nation as "an unusual chapter" and the chapter having the highest membership percentage in Ohio.

Nineteen years ago today, Robert C. Dodson, then 30, breathed a sigh of relief in France. It was Armistice day, and the fighting was over.

Today in the cold gray dawn of another Armistice day, Dodson, now 49, met his death in the fire-charred ruins of a humble home on the eastern outskirts of Mansfield.

Two others survived the flames that gutted the three-room cottage at 25 Fourth avenue at 5:30 this morning, but one was severely burned.

Dean Gerhardt, 34, R. D. 5, Mansfield, was in the General hospital suffering from second degree burns across the back and shoulders. Hospital attendants reported his condition as "fair."

The third member of the ill-fated trio, Lindsey Shaffer, 44, Harriestown, Noble county, was in the city jail for investigation. Questioned by police, Shaffer said the three men arrived at their cottage at midnight and retired.

At 5:30 he said he arose to prepare a cup of coffee for himself.

As he lit a match to a small oil stove, it burst into flames. Shaffer said he then was outside for water but the small dwelling was almost immediately enveloped in flames.

Neighbors sent in alarm.

Firemen from companies No. 1 and 2, who responded to the alarm sent in by neighbors found the building a blazing inferno, about half when they arrived. Nearly 1,100 feet of hose was used while the fire was being fought.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a series of articles dealing with the development of football at Notre Dame since 1887.

By TOBY WIAST
(Copyright, 1937, Associated Press)

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—The death of Knute Rockne in a Kansas airplane crash March 31, 1931, threw Notre Dame football into a state of chaos.

Could Notre Dame continue to have winning teams without the guidance of the illustrious Rockne?

The Catholic university was determined to "carry on for Rock." Jesse C. Harper, who had coached at Notre Dame from 1913 to 1917, returned as athletic director and Heartley (Hunk) Anderson, who had played on Irish teams under Rockne in 1918-19-20-21, became head football coach in 1931.

But the Irish could not get back to the victory trail blazed by Rockne.

The season after Rockne's death Notre Dame won six games, lost two and tied one. This was a slump for Notre Dame, for the undefeated 1929 and 1930 teams coached by Rockne had won 19 straight games and national championships.

In 1932 the Irish won seven games and lost two. The defeats were administered by Pittsburgh and Southern California.

Then the Deluge

The following season was the worst in Notre Dame football history. The 1933 team won only three games, dropped five and tied one, scoring only 32 points, compared with 80 for the opposition.

Elmer Layden, one of the famous Four Horsemen of 1924, became athletic director and head football coach in 1934, succeeding Harper and Anderson.

Eluding into his tasks, Layden did not make any radical changes, and said: "If the Notre Dame system was good for Rock, it is good enough for me."

A New Machine

He started to build a new football machine, using as a basis Rockne's plan of shifting ends, a balanced line and shifting backfields.

He varied the Rockne system to meet changing conditions, pointing to Rockne's frequent statement, "when they begin to catch you, you have to use new stuff."

Layden's 1934 team showed

ELMER LAYDEN
The Notre Dame coach believes Notre Dame material has "fallen off," although "we still have some" good boys. He points to Schwartz, Gipp, Millner and other Notre Dame greats to show what he means by "good material." Because U. S. college football has improved, Layden predicts few national championship teams of the future will be undefeated.

much improvement over the 1933 squad, winning six games and losing three. The 1934 eleven scored 103 points to 56 for the opposition, and the victims included Purdue, Carnegie Tech, Wisconsin, Northwestern, Army and Southern California. That year the Irish lost to Texas, 7-6; to Pittsburgh, 19-0, and to Navy, 10-6.

The 1935 Irish season was slightly better. Layden's men winning seven games, losing one and tying one.

Last year Notre Dame captured six battles, lost two and tied one. To Play Toughest Teams.

Will Notre Dame find the road back to national championships? Layden artfully avoids answering that question.

The 1937 Irish schedule, called a "suicide card" by many, included games with Drake, Illinois, Navy, Minnesota, Pittsburgh, Army Northwestern, Carnegie Tech and Southern California.

The Irish tied Illinois, lost to Carnegie Tech, came back to beat Navy and Minnesota and last Saturday dropped a 21 to 6 battle to Pittsburgh.

Layden believes Notre Dame material has "fallen off" in the past eight years, "although we have had many good boys in the past and still have some."

He says Notre Dame will continue to schedule the toughest opposition in the country, "because we might as well lost to good teams, if we have to lose."

Bellville Tackles Rams In Crucial League Tilt Under Lights.

FOR the second time this year Madison's undefeated Rams will be at full strength when they entertain the once-beaten Bellville pigskin warriors in the feature game of the Mid-State league program under the arce at Madison stadium Friday night.

Coach Al Fendrick's proteges were in top shape last week for the Loudonville tussle and emerged without an injury as they chalked up their sixth consecutive triumph.

Rams Defend Title

The Rams tapered off with a signal drill today as they prepared to defend their Mid-State league title and remain in the select group of unbeaten and untied Ohio high school clubs.

Bellville, one of the chief contenders for the Rams' title, this season, will be out to strike a blow at Madison's title ambitions. The invaders possess a fast running attack, coupled with some clever passing, and are expected to "shoot the works."

face a big obstacle when it takes on the undefeated Mt. Gilead Indians next week.

Fredericktown will drop the curtain on its grid season Friday when it invades Danville to meet the Blue Devils. Loudonville will bring its football activities to a close by taking on the Indians at Mt. Gilead in the other loop tilt.

ITHACA, N. Y.—(AP)—The so-called "Ivy colleges" were a step nearer standardization of athletic principles today with Cornell's adoption of an athletic code virtually duplicating that under which Princeton-Harvard-Yale relations operate.

KENMORE ACE

Lloyd Miller, pictured above, is the sparkplug of the Akron Kenmore grid team that invades Stadium field Saturday for a battle with the Mansfield Tygers. His passing and running is expected to be a feature of the game.

Galion-Shelby Tilt Heads N. C. O. Sked

WHILE Gallion high's invasion of Shelby for the championship grid battle with the Whippets Saturday heads this week's North Central Ohio conference program, the Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets will open the circuit hostilities Friday night when it tackles the Harding Presidents under the lights at Marion.

Coach Bob Corry's Orangemen can clinch its first conference crown since 1927 by whipping Shelby, who has yet to win an N. C. O. tilt.

A defeat would give the Gallion gridgers a co-championship with Mt. Vernon, providing the Jackets defeat Marion.

Ashland will attempt to register its first conference triumph of the season Saturday when it entertains the fourth-place Bucyrus Redmen in the other league affair.

Army-Notre Dame Game Tops Nation's Pigskin Parade Saturday.

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Mr. Gus H. (Football) Fan can sit back this Saturday and enjoy hot intersectional warfare led off by the 24th anniversary of the classic Notre Dame-Army rivalry in New York.

There's potential dynamite in every battle, with the underdog swinging from his heels and hoping he connects. And there's a swell chance for the mid-west and south to knock the ears off the east's reputation as intersectional giant-killer.

Easterners Favored

In the majority of cases, except for such get-togethers as Notre Dame-Army affair and Michigan-Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, the easterners are favored. But in this dizzy football season, where a team is "chump" one week and "chump" the next, the odds are about as reliable as the weather.

Perhaps the standout possibilities for an explosion that could shake every gridiron from the rock-bound coast to the sun-kissed shores are offered at Pittsburgh where Pitt's power-packed Panthers, currently ranked No. 1 on the national list, entertain the unpredictable Cornhuskers from Nebraska.

Pitt has been going like a ball of fire since the Fordham fiasco. The Huskers, on the other hand, after starting off with a terrific bang, have graduated downward to where their noise is of the popping-cork variety. But there's always the chance that they might repeat what they did against Minnesota in their opener.

Irish 2 to 1 Choice

Notre Dame goes into the Army fray a 2 to 1 favorite of Broadway bettors. But the stories from South Bend tell of a squad crippled by the manhandling of Pitt and Minnesota, while Army is at or near full strength.

Penn just "hasn't got it" this year. Upset victims of Penn State in their latest trip to the post, the Quakers are tangling with a Michigan team that's riding a three-game winning streak.

A southwest-south battle features the passing Razorbacks from Arkansas who face Mississippi State.

Unique Scouting Alliance to Be Tested at Columbus

COLUMBUS—(UP)—A unique scouting alliance will be tested for the second time this season when Illinois and Ohio State meet here Saturday.

Throughout the first half of the season in press boxes at Columbus, Los Angeles and Chicago, scouts from Indiana and Illinois sat side-by-side as Ohio State romped to four victories in five starts.

Gridiron observers close to both Indiana and Illinois claim that the scouts from the two schools "doubled up" when scouting the Bucks and that one made known to the other the finding of a vulnerable spot in Ohio's highly-touted line.

Indiana made good use of the scouts' discovery a week ago and tied up telling yardage through the forward wall of the Bucks. This week Illinois likely will concentrate its running attack on the same weak point that the Hoosiers took advantage of.

In the Indiana game Ohio State appeared to be a team that had been scouted thoroughly. The Hoosiers were never fooled by anything in the Bucks' repertoire after the opening minute of play when a "sleeper" pass caught the secondary unaware. For the remainder of the contest the proteges of Coach "Bo" McMillin appeared to anticipate every move Ohio State's backs made.

Coach Francis A. Schmidt continued to juggle his backfield talent in the Bucks' practice yesterday. He indicated he would start Jim Miller, a senior who has seen but little service, at left half Saturday. Miller is a mediocre ball carrier, but a good punter and will be entrusted with the kicking duties.

Members of the Merchants' club that will play for the Semi-pros are Vern and Jim Heiser, Bill Distl, Gaylord Bucher, Tony Schadek, Ed Zediker, Horvath, Kilzer and Nunt. Others on the team include Harper Au and Bennett.

OLDS SET NEW CLASS A RECORD

THE Miller Oldsmobiles established a new season record in the City Class A bowling league last night at the Meder alleys.

The Olds team came through with a brilliant 3085 total to win two games from Metcalfe's Pure Olds who scored a 2986 total. The former record of 3052 was held by the Roma Lunches.

Opening with a 1029 game, the Miller club came back to topple 1034 plus in the second game and ended with a 1022.

Clarence Meder paced the Olds' legions with a sparkling 684, which included an opening game of 255.

In last night's other A league matches, the Liederkrantz took two games from the Meder Recreation club, and Lumbermens Mutuals won a pair from the Roma Lunches.

OHIO'S DEFENSE TOPS BIG TEN TEAMS

CHICAGO—(AP)—Defense is the big thing in college football this season.

Saturday's millions, that thrilled to end sweeps a decade ago, have learned to respect the finer art of smacking down the enemy. They had to. Defensive football has swept the nation in the wake of the lately departed "razzle-dazzle" offense.

It is the same all over the Big Ten conference. The trend definitely is toward defense and no coach wants to be caught napping.

The results are close, bruising games in which a single touchdown or placement decide the issue. Minnesota and Ohio State are the only conference teams who have rolled up an impressive total in Big Ten games—Ohio State took it out on Chicago, 39 to 0, and Minnesota defeated Michigan, 39 to 6, and Iowa, 35 to 10.

The Bucks, however, are leading the conference in defense, with only these 10 points by Indiana scored against them. The Hoosiers are second with 12—six scored by Minnesota which won and six by Illinois in a losing battle.

Minnesota is next with 16 points against them and Illinois has had 17 registered by opponents.

Since coaches found an answer for "razzle-dazzle," defensive teams have proved smarter than the outfit with the ball.

Appearance of Bob Zuppke's 5-4-2 defense against Northwestern which expected Illinois' customary six-man unit was typical of the new trend.

Iowa, threatened with Minnesota's crushing power, opened up with virtually a nine-man line in the first period when the Gophers were traveling against the field and couldn't punt out far enough to open up with passes, on punt exchanges with the wind bottled up until they changed goals at the end of the period and began to edge down the field.

Quality Club Shoes

—are made by one of the largest manufacturers of men's shoes. A manufacturer who operates on a volume schedule and whose ONLY COSTS are labor and materials. Because of the total absence of other costs such as promotion and national advertising, these have more wear, style, and fit built into them than any of their competitive lines.

That is the reason why Quality Club Shoes at $4.85 are the best shoes in the price range.

HAVE YOU JIM'S TROUBLE?

TELL ME, JACK—WHY CAN'T I FIND A CIGAR THAT DOESN'T GET BITTER AND BITEY? I'M GETTING TIRED THROWING 'EM AWAY HALF-SMOKED. HAVE YOU THE SAME TROUBLE?

I DID, OLD MAN, BUT NOT NOW. I'M SMOKING PHILLIES. HERE—TRY ONE. YOU'LL ENJOY EVERY INCH. IT'S THE ONLY CIGAR I KNOW OF THAT CAN'T BE BITTER, BITEY OR RASPY.

SAY, JACK, I SURE WANT MORE OF THESE PHILLIES, THEY'RE JUST WHAT I'VE BEEN LOOKING FOR. MILD—SMOOTH—NOT BITTER OR BITEY. THAT BAYUK PROCESS CERTAINLY MAKES PHILLIES DIFFERENT FROM OTHER CIGARS.

YOU SEE, JIM, ALL TOBACCOS CONTAIN BITTER, BITEY ELEMENTS, IF THEY'RE NOT TAKEN OUT, YOU GET THEM IN THE CIGAR. BAYUK INVENTED A PROCESS THAT TAKES 'EM OUT. THAT'S WHY PHILLIES CAN'T BE BITTER OR BITEY.

WHY PHILLIES ARE FREE OF BITTER, BITEY, RASPY TASTE

Bayuk selects and buys for PHILLIES the finest and mildest types of Havana, Domestic and Sumatra tobaccos. They are the very pick of the crops.

All PHILLIES tobaccos are aged and mellowed for at least two years—and are cured by the same methods used in making the most expensive cigars . . . BUT BAYUK DOESN'T STOP HERE.

Bayuk owns an exclusive, patented process that removes the bitter oils and harsh elements that ordinary curing methods don't, and can't, get out. No other cigar manufacturer can use this process.

BIERMAN PRIMES GOPHERS

CHICAGO — (P) — Football Coach Bernie Bierman is asking no help this week from Psychology. Bernie Bierman in the job of getting Minnesota's Golden Gophers primed to let Northwestern have it Saturday.

Bierman has been able to stick strictly to improving the blocking and tackling and the execution of plays—for the Gophers need no "keying up" at least 12 of them have been waiting for Saturday ever since Oct. 31 last year when Northwestern wrecked a perfect season for Minnesota by blasting out a 6 to 0 triumph.

Indiana, eyeing a chance to land runnerup honors in the title race, hustled through a highly satisfactory drill, their last hard assignment before meeting Iowa. Catch Irl Tubbs devoted Iowa's practice to polishing up the forward pass offense and defense. Harry Stuhldreher was "terribly discouraged" over the manner in which the Freshmen pushed the Wisconsin Varsity about with Purdue plays. The Boiledmakers worked under lights to add power to those same plays in getting ready for the Badgers.

Michigan again concentrated on its offense which has been revised for the meeting with Pennsylvania. Chicago's varsity put in another day of work in preparing for the Illinois game next week, while the Reserves drilled to get ready for their big moment—the starting assignment against Belmont Saturday.

Schmeling Returns To United States

NEW YORK — (P) — The red carpet has been rolled out for Max Schmeling, pugilism's gift to the steamship lines, as he comes back doggedly today, once more looking and longing for that heavyweight championship he missed in Madison Square Garden Bowl more than four autumns ago.

Mike Jacobs and the other big shots aren't dodging the smiling, persistent German this time like they did last June when he showed up for his "phantom" fight with Jim Braddock.

This time Max comes halled (if not helled) like the first robin, harbinger of a promising winter season of boxing that will keep a lot of the boys off the cuff and as personal advance agent for his million-dollar scrap with Champion Joe Louis next June.

At the ripe old age of 32 the Teuton is more energetic, perhaps more important to the boxing game, than when he held the title. Starting against Harry Thomas Dec. 13, at the Garden, he's booked for two more bouts in Germany before he makes his final supreme bid to get the crown back from Louis.

GUN EXPERT HERE

Karl Maust, gun and ammunition expert, will be at the Yunker Bros. Sports store, Saturday, to show a complete new line of guns. During his visit at the store, he will answer questions pertaining to guns, ammunition and their uses.

economic campaigns. Neither of the trio reported any expense. Their candidacies, however, were backed by the Mansfield school committee which has not reported its expenditures.

Of the nine winners in the council races, Lester D. Hunter, Democrat, conducted the most economical drive for votes. His total cost, as reported to the board of elections, was $2.25. George L. Berg, Democratic councilman-at-large, reported an expenditure of $4. Second Ward Councilman C. N. Shultz, a Republican without opposition, spent $10 to be re-elected, although he didn't have to do any campaigning. Raymond Brown, Republican, who was defeated for councilman-at-large, spent nothing on his campaign, his report shows.

private exercises were held in assemblies.

L. A. Cook, commander of Earl D. McVey post, addressed Mansfield school children at the Senior high assembly, shortly after 11 o'clock this morning.

Thousands of veterans over the state got out the old tank uniforms and tin hats which they wore so jauntily 19 years ago while in Legion ranks the snappy new blue uniforms, adopted in recent years to replace the outgrown wartime uniforms, were largely in evidence.

Bands, city heads, and fraternal organizations will march with veterans of the World War, Spanish American war, and their auxiliaries and other patriotic organizations. Veterans of the Central Powers also will march with the soldiers of the Allies.

The parade will leave the Legion home on Park avenue west at 7:30 p. m., march around Central park, down Main to Fourth, across Fourth to Mulberry, up to Park avenue and back to the home.

as his fellow World War Veterans filled into Saint George's a few minutes before 11 a. m.

Rev. Dart explained to a group of 60 British Legionnaires gathered at a small "protest meeting" outside the church that he was only expressing personal views when he said yesterday:

"I would rather the Duke did not attend the services."

The vicar told the group: "I will be very sorry if the Duke does not come. I will be very sorry if my statement is taken as a suggestion that the Duke stay away."

The vicar then was told by Colonel Theodore Crowther, commander of the Paris post of the British Legion, that the Duke already had decided he would be "unable to come."

Crowther persuaded most of the 60 protesters to enter the church, but a half dozen refused.

NOVEL ON LIFE IN RENAISSANCE TOPS BOOK LIST

"A Cardinal of the Medici" Steeped in Atmosphere of 16th Century.

Upon a background of Renaissance splendor and learning, the life of Ippolito de Medici is drawn in "A Cardinal of the Medici" by Susan Hicks Beach, which heads the list of new novels at the Mansfield Public Library this week. Filled with historical figures and steeped in the atmosphere of 16th century Italy, the novel is a revelation of the life of that age. Lytle Saxon's story of southern plantation life takes up the problem of the mulattoes, the "Children of Strangers" as they are frequently called. The novel of that name tells of Fannie Vidal, a beautiful mulatto, of Natchez, her colored husband, and of Joel, her child by a white man. Her efforts to give Joel the advantages of a white child are climaxed by his leaving her to go to a distant city where he is unknown. "The Nutmeg Tree" by Margery Sharp is the story of Julia, an English actress and war widow, whose daughter Susan was raised by her husband's parents. Susan goes away when a young suitor appears to complicate her life, and amusing situations arise when the mother and her friend attempt to break up the youthful love affair. Four other novels that will be ready for circulation Monday are "Twenty Four Hours a Day" by Cuthrell; "The Trail" by Jordan; "Dance, Girl, Dance" by Marshall; and "Storm Over Eden" by Miller.

How Other Half Lives. An opportunity to see "how the other half lives" will be found in the volume "American Slaves," an anthology of stories, poems, essays, drawings and lithographs by 50 authors and artists who have jobs in the arts project of the WPA. The subject matter of it all is American life today, as it appears in the tenements and relief stations.

The hardships and struggles which accompanied efforts to establish homes in the American West are related in "The Sod-house Frontier" by Everett Dick. This is a social history of the Northern Plains from 1854, the year Kansas was founded, to 1889, the year the Dakotas were admitted as states.

Thomas Thurber, author of "My Life and Hard Times" has written another book of very humorous essays illustrated with his own clever drawings. He ridicules the new ideas of psychology in "Let Your Mind Alone," and declares in favor of following the dictates of good, common sense, as his ancestors did.

Other non-fiction this week includes the following volumes: "Skiing" by Proctor & Stephens; "Improve Your Skiing," Hall & Benson; "Fun for the Family," Meyer; "Journal of a Lady of Quality, 1774-1776," edited by Schaw; "Oliver Tree," Huxley; "Poems," Spender; "So You're Going to a Psychiatrist," Adamson; "Friend, Goethe, Wagner," Mann; "Capital Kaleidoscope," Keyes; "40,000 Against the Arctic," Smolke; "Garber Historical and Genealogical Record," Garber; "U. S. Camera 1937," edited by Maloney; "Youth at the Wheel," Floherty; "Employment and Related Statistics of Mines and Quarries, 1935," by Works Progress Administration.

Book of the Week

"Imperial City" by Elmer Rice; Coward McCann, 554 pp $2.

Elmer Rice herein writes about New York just as Balzac once painted Paris. He realistically writes about all of its mores, dirt, bad manners and corruptions; all of which leads men to insomnia, excessive drinking and hatred of the human race. This city that is so violently detested by all sorts of men, has people constantly flocking to it, and they think themselves most unhappy away from it.

"Imperial City" is like a cross-section through the heart of New York. For the author has not failed to mention every kind of tendency or person one would find in the weekly paper. He has woven into this novel crime, society, graft, big business, labor problems, student agitations, sex and religion.

The family that dominates the book is known as the Colemans. There is Fanny, the drink-crazed mother, and her three sons and one daughter. Christopher is the big business man, Greg, the man-about-town and Gay, the professor, also Corinne, the daughter.

These four children take us about and introduce us to just about all of New York. Through Christopher, we meet and hear some of the big business men, and we are often astonished to know what is going on in their board meetings. Greg shows us the world of luxury with night clubs as our cocktail. He leads us on such a merry chase through the inner world of Broadway that we finally find ourselves attending his trial for murder. By means of Gay, we see the academic life and touch upon the many unsolved problems before the world today.

Mr. Rice is thinking much about these problems and uses Gay as his means for expressing them. There are two highly dramatic situations in the book—the murder trial and a labor strike. Both of them have the tenseness and suspense which make such situations. Much of the book is well-written; all of it is true as to what we find in the big city; but for all the evils and wrongs unearthed, we are left without a solution.—E. S.

PREVENTS PEN TOWER STRIKES

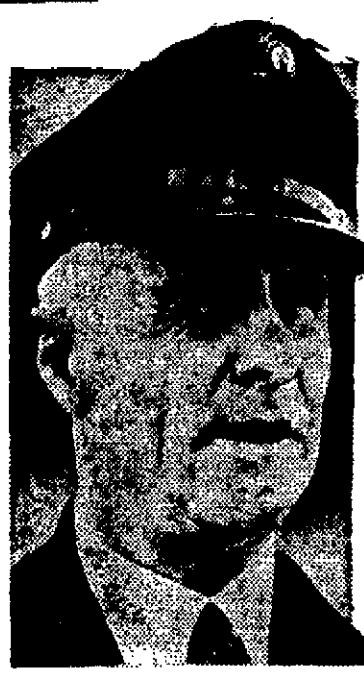

Ohio Warden Installs Shooting at Base of Structure.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Convict James Mason's twice-indulged desire of going on an "altitude strike" atop Ohio penitentiary's 150-foot water tower is no longer possible.

Warden J. C. Woodard had metal shooting placed around the tower's base, making the ladder inaccessible. Mason, serving one to 20 years from Lucas county, spent 12 hours on the tower five weeks ago and put in a 17-hour stint a week ago, boredom and bad weather finally subduing him.

RESERVED SEAT BOARD TO OPEN

Tickets For Players' First Production of Year Can Be Exchanged Tomorrow.

The reserved seat board for the first production of the Mansfield Community Players will open at 9 a. m. tomorrow at Tawne's drug store. Dress rehearsal of the English drama "Libel" is scheduled for Monday night.

The play will be presented with a cast of new players and several who have been identified with the Players in the past. The leading role is played by Ben Goodenough, around whom revolves a dramatic trial for libel.

All the action takes place in an English courtroom, where a newspaper defends itself on a charge of libel brought by a highly respected member of the peerage. The paper has started in a story that he was not the man he professed to be, but a Canadian veteran of the World war, suffering from shell shock.

The play is being directed by Helen Bacon, who has coached the Community Players for several years, and stage settings are again designed by Frank Forshen, technical director to the Players.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Richard Halliburton wrote his last book really for boys and girls, and he has called it "Book of Marvels: The Occident." He is planning to write another one on rock.

The Orient, before very long. The book is filled with full-page photographs of the many marvels in Europe, and North and South America. This popular author's books are always readable and entertaining, and his new book should be popular with the young people.

Besides well known pictures, there are several that are seldom, if ever, seen. One of these is of Reims Cathedral in flames, fired by German shells in 1914. Another unusual one is of the gun galleries in Gibraltar. Literally in, as they are dug out of the solid rock.

"DOUBLE" WHEAT PLANTED ENID, Okla. — (U2) — August Meyer, Garfield County farmer, is planting the grain from a double-headed stalk of volunteer wheat which grew on his farm. He hopes the stalk's "offspring" will duplicate the feat.

Mansfielders will have a chance next week to learn what makes the wheels go round in Wall Street. Jason Westerfield, special representative of the New York stock exchange will speak at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Wednesday noon at a joint meeting of the Gyro and Optimist clubs. Members of Rotary, Kiwanis, Hermit and Amica clubs have also been invited to attend and steeple delegations from all of them have already signified that they plan to hear Westerfield.

Westerfield has been associated with the stock exchange for the past 20 years, and has had intimate connections with all of its departments.

Taking as his topic "Wall Street From Within," Westerfield will describe in detail the operation of the exchange and the position it occupies in the economic life of the nation. Westerfield has also had considerable business experience, having been identified as an engineer with both the automotive and aviation industries, and will show the relations between the two, as well as explain the interdependence of one on the other.

Toledo Bishop Praises Stand Against Communism.

TOLEDO—(UP)—The Most Rev. Karl J. Alter, bishop of Toledo, has lauded the American Federation of Labor for its stand against communism and urged other labor groups follow its example. Speaking before the convention of the Toledo diocesan council of Catholic women, he contended the united front in Spain was evidence that communism and not fascism was "the chief danger" facing the United States today. Congratulating the A. F. of L. and the Toledo Central Labor Union for avowing to reject "anything that might favor communistic domination and tendencies," the bishop said that "even though the objects and purposes" of communism might be justifiable, labor unions should "repudiate the methods and tactics of communism in the use of violence."

TEST FAILS

Learn Gun Taken From Bandits Didn't Kill Ohio Trooper.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—(UP)—Laboratory tests of a weapon taken from bandits captured when police foiled a robbery here failed to substantiate suspicions that it might have been used in slaying Patrolman George Conn of Columbus, O.

Detective Oscar Tachury of the Milwaukee police department said that comparison of a bullet taken from the body of Patrolman Conn with trial bullets fired from a foreign-made weapon showed that the rifling was different.

The gun was a German Mauser taken from Fred V. Young, one of four police captives charged with first degree murder in the shooting of Detective George Raabe here last week.

'BOES RESPECT BOXCAR BISHOP'

ROBERT I. BELL

Itinerant Preacher Claims to Have More Churches Than Any Other Faith.

PUEBLO, Colo.—(UP)—Robert I. Bell, itinerant preacher, has more churches in this country than the combined buildings of any single faith.

For seven years, Bell, who calls himself the "sky pilot of the rails," has been conducting services among the nation's professional transients. Any box car is his chapel—his congregation the thousands of hoboes and "drifters" who frequent "jungles" over the country.

He has lived in vacant lots and groves near railroad yards where hoboes make their temporary homes. He has brewed coffee and "mulligan" in tin cans around their open fires. Knowing the language, habits and problems of the hobo, Bell is respected and has influence among them.

His mission, however, is not so much concerned with those hardened men who have been on the road for years. He is interested more in the young boys who wander aimlessly over the country and who, he says, invariably get into trouble. He tries to rehabilitate them and send them home.

Being a "box car bishop" is not an easy job, Bell pointed out. He came to Pueblo because a distraught mother in Kansas City asked him to help find her son. The system he uses is simple and effective. He has little trouble making friends with the men.

RATES SLASHED

BELLEFONTAINE GAS LIGHT

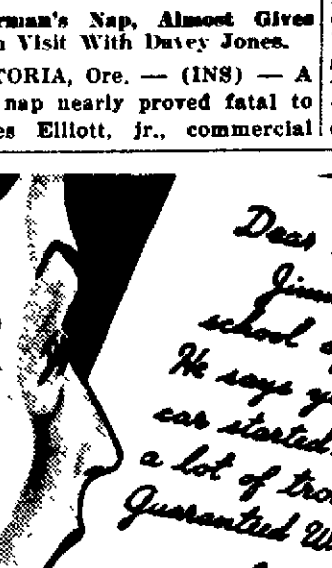

See Bellefontaine Gas, Light Charges Lowest in State. BELLEFONTAINE—(UP)—Bellefontaine will have the lowest rates for gas and electricity from municipally owned plants in Ohio starting next January, Mayor J. O. Smucker has predicted.

Acting on the recommendation of Utilities Engineer F. M. Barley, city council has voted major reductions in utility rates. The electric rates, reduced from 11 to 18 per cent, will vary from a maximum of four cents per kilowatt hour to one cent; gas rates from 30 cents per 1000 cubic feet to 25 cents per 1000 for users of 7000 cubic feet a month. The annual saving for consumers will total about $20,000 during next year, the rates going into effect in January, 1938.

NBC RULES OUT RADIO TALK BY JOHNSON ON SOCIAL DISEASES

NEW YORK — (UP) — The Na-

today that Gen. Hugh S. Johnson did not make his usual radio talk last night because his subject, Social Diseases, was not suitable for the radio audience.

Johnson, radio commentator and former head of the National Recovery administration, has been broadcasting four times a week from 10 to 10:15 p. m. (EST). When he arrived at the studios last night,

WPA UNION IN NEW QUARTERS

New Meeting Place Located on North Park Street.

Establishment of permanent headquarters for the Richland county WPA laborers' union at 15 1/2 North Park street, was announced today by W. F. Wheelock, president of the union.

Since its organization several weeks ago the union had used a room at 70 1/2 North Main street as a meeting place. The new meeting place will be used for the first time Friday night.

The union, with a membership of nearly 100 throughout the county, is asking a 10-cent wage increase on the hour. The present work relief scale pays 40 cents an hour as a top wage, Whelock said.

TWO HELD IN AUTO THEFT

URBANA — (UP) — Clyde Lloyd,
31, and Harry Winters, 21, captured by Delaware authorities earlier this week, were held to the grand jury under $1500 bond each when they pleaded guilty to charges of automobile theft yesterday.

he was told that he could not deliver the speech he had prepared.
Piano music was substituted, but near the close of the 15-minute period Johnson was permitted to broadcast this statement:
"I came to the studio tonight
prepared with a speech in support of Surgeon General Parran's, of the United States Public Health Service, crusade against social diseases. A few minutes before I was to go on the air, I was informed that the discussion was not in accord with the policies of the National Broadcasting company. I Thank you and good night."

The company said that it had been impossible to reach General
Johnson to tell him that his manuscript, submitted in advance, was not acceptable, which left him no time to prepare another.
"The policy of NBC has been established after consultation with reputable physicians, who have admitted themselves at a loss as to how to discuss the topic of social diseases before an audience composed of children, adolescents and adults," the company said.

WORKERS TAKE UP 'CHALLENGE'

500 Red Cross Volunteers Out to Keep Chapter in Front
In Annual Roll Call.

of memberships in Red Cross, ordinary members, $1.00; contributing memberships, $5.00; sustaining, $10.00; and supporting, $25.00. Out of each of these types of memberships, 50 cents is sent to national headquarters for disaster relief, and the remainder kept by the chapter for city and county service.

As the workers began their canvassing, the downtown district was ablaze with banners of the Red Cross. Tonight the big red cross at the west entrance of Central park will be illuminated, and will be lighted every night during the drive.

The Roll Call dinner, which was held in the Westinghouse auditorium, was attended by more than 300 workers. Vice Chairman Miller presided and introduced members of the Roll Call general committee.

Locke's challenge was repeated last night by Everett Dix, assistant manager of the Eastern area of American Red Cross, who was one of the speakers at the meeting. He told the workers that other chapters frankly are out to "beat" the Mansfield chapter, because of the fact that the chapter has held high place in the state for three consecutive years and has won permanent ownership of the state's honor flag.

He said that the Richmond county chapter has an outstanding place at national headquarters in Washington, that it is frequently held up as an example and inspiration for other chapters, and that workers are sent to Mansfield for training.

Dix told workers that the great appeal of the Red Cross is in its universal service to humanity, and pointed out that at the present time the American Red Cross is ministering, without partiality, to wounded soldiers on both sides in the war in Spain, and serves alike the wounded Japanese and Chinese in the war zones of China.

Judge Henry Robison, Roll Call chairman of Ohio, who also spoke, said that another silk honor flag would be offered this year to the chapter making the highest percentage membership, and that Richmond county, with other chapters determined to outpoint it, would have to "beat itself" in order to win the flag another year.

An impressive climax to the Roll Call dinner was a tableau presented on the stage of the Westinghouse auditorium, which had been arranged as a surprise feature by Mrs. V. E. Vinings, chairman of dinner arrangements.

The theater lights were dimmed while from both rear entrances 108 boys and girls of the high school band and the girls drum and bugle corps, marched in, dressed in their brilliant white and gold, red and gold, and blue and gold uniforms. The vast curtains on the stage parted to show "The World's Greatest Mother."

Against a huge red cross, high on the stage and illuminated from the rear, there was the figure of the "Greatest Mother," while grouped about her feet were representatives of the American Legion, the Salvation Army, the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Junior Red Cross and the volunteer workers of Red Cross. In the foreground was a Red Cross nurse with a child in her arms.

Favors for the dinner, miniature Red Cross banners on standards, were made by the Western avenue school Junior Red Cross.

Armistice Day In a Troubled World.

THIS nineteenth anniversary of the signing of the armistice that ended the Great war finds the world in a more befuddled state than was apparent in 1914 before the start of hostilities in which the United States finally became involved.

The twenty years that have elapsed since fighting was at its height on European battlefields have served little purpose in removing causes of war or in quelling the militaristic spirit of a number of nations which constitute a continual menace to world peace.

In Europe the war in Spain has resulted in such an alignment of nations and "isms" that only a miracle can prevent more widespread warfare.

In the Orient, Japan has started on what savors of an ambitious program of world conquest by engaging in an undeclared war against China.

Great Britain moves hastily toward large scale rearmam-ent; Russia, Italy and Germany make obvious gestures of military strength and the United States moves quietly, but expensively, toward preparation for unforeseen eventualities.

There are active peace societies now, just as for many hundreds of years, but it has heretofore been amply evidenced that no single nation can control world destinies nor prevent recurrence of wars.

Eventual permanence of world peace must come about through the same slow processes of civilization which will finally humanize the animal passions that are responsible for the savagery that aggressive warfare reveals.

Each generation can do no more than contribute its best efforts toward nearer approach to the ultimate goal of universal peace on earth.

Racketeering In Liquor Licenses.

ANNOUNCEMENT that the state board of liquor control will act "in the near future," to stop liquor permit racketeering, is not convincing—unless the liquor board has been jarred into action by "dry" gains made at last week's local option elections in various parts of the state.

The fact is that the sale-by-the-drink liquor business in Ohio, under the loose licensing system that has been in vogue, has reached such a stage of disrepute that many of the even more ardent "wets" have become completely disgusted with it.

Night clubs, with their special privilege of remaining open until 2:30 a. m., have not only passed all bounds of decency in the vulgarity of their floor shows but they have become favorite hangouts for peddlers of marijuana cigarettes, the narcotic to which many young people—including some boys and girls of school age—are becoming addicted.

Beer licenses have been scattered all over town, without regard for the peace and quiet of residential sections, and also in disregard of the character and previous record of licensees, at least some of whom use their beer license as a cloak for the bootlegging of hard liquor.

Subterfuges under which disreputable characters have been able to secure sale-by-the-drink liquor licenses have contributed to present intolerable conditions.

It was understood, at the start, that the state liquor board would not issue a license unless the applicant was approved by the local chief of police. THIS HAS NOT BEEN DONE and licenses are consequently in the hands of many persons who, under no circumstances, could measure up to the requirements for saloon licenses in pre-prohibition days.

It is high time for the state liquor board to revamp its licensing methods and to place the business on at least the relatively higher plane of the old-time saloon, from which children were excluded and in which women were a novelty.

Medical Care at Public Expense.

ELSIE ROBINSON could scarcely hit on a more controversial subject than the one she discusses in her "Listen, World" article today.

As it is one which will come into increasing public discussion during the next few years it would be a good idea for you to read her article, so that you may be thinking along this line—and possibly expressing your own views on the subject.

The article has to do with the matter of public health and considers the advisability of providing medical, surgical and dental advice and care as a governmental service to be paid for by taxation.

Quoting a physician, the article says: "It is evident that only the very wealthy and the very poor receive good medical service, nor is it always available to the poor unless they are actually destitute."

Whatever may be the arguments for and against such a proposal, it has been quite general experience that the great middle class of moderate wage-earners and medium-salaried employees are the most heavily penalized by illness or accident, and that the savings of years are sometimes wiped out in a few weeks or months by high hospital bills and the fees of physicians and surgeons.

Costs attendant to childbirth, under the new vogue of going to the hospital for the accouchement and later care of mother and baby, have also reached the point of being almost prohibitive to many young couples who are struggling to make ends meet during the early years of married life.

This whole subject is worthy of careful thought—with likelihood that another ten to twenty-five years will bring much more intelligent and humanitarian handling of the situation.

Politicians and business men will never understand each other, but politicians generally understand business better than businessmen understand politics.

It appears that when La Guardia was a boy he was also willing to walk a mile—but it was to get to school.

Japan's Ambitious Scheme To Conquer World

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—On July 25, 1927, the then Japanese Premier Tanaka submitted to the Mikado a memorandum looking toward the Japanese "annexation of Manchuria as the first step toward the conquest of China, the United States and the rest of the world."

Somehow Chinese Ambassador Wang, now in Washington, succeeded in digging up a copy of this memorandum. And he has seen to it that the state department has been informed of it.

It really is a remarkable document. Ambassador Wang offers no comment in connection with it. It speaks for itself, in his opinion.

THE PURPORTED DOCUMENT
Boiled down, Premier Tanaka argued that:

"In the future, if we (the Japanese) want to control China, we must first crush the United States, just as, in the past, we had to fight in the Russo-Japanese war."

"But, in order to conquer China, we must first conquer Manchuria and Mongolia."

"In order to conquer the world, we must first conquer China."

"WARS INEVITABLE"
Quite an ambitious program! We do not know that the Mikado endorsed it. Premier Tanaka, however, was a fairly authoritative spokesman.

"For settling difficulties in eastern Asia," he said, "Japan must adopt a policy of 'blood and iron.' Then, somewhat repeating himself, 'In order to conquer the world, Japan must conquer Europe and Asia; in order to conquer Europe and Asia, Japan must conquer China, and in order to conquer China, Japan must first conquer Manchuria and Mongolia. Japan expects to fulfill the above program in 10 years.' Also, 'Japan believes wars in the near future with the United States and with Russia are inevitable.'"

AS TANAKA PICTURED IT
Premier Tanaka deplored the "Nine-Power Treaty," which he termed "a (Japanese) policy of national suicide."
"England," he continued, "can-

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY
Sunday, Nov. 11, 1917.

Fire department was called to Exchange hotel, North Mulberry street—man fell asleep with lighted cigar in mouth.

Humphrey Crombie, 73, died. Uncle Tom's Cabin was screened at the Majestic.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hart, Cedar street.

Newton Dewese was called to Cincinnati by the death of his brother.

Mrs. Marguerite Walters was injured when struck by auto on North Main street.

Clifford O. Lister was commissioned as second lieutenant of field artillery.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY
Friday, Nov. 11, 1932.

Light snows sent temperature down to 26, lowest of the season. Harvey Fleck returned from a two weeks hunting trip in the Algonquin mountains of Canada, with a 1,200 pound moose as a trophy.

Cars belonging to Russell Riley and Frank Tenkey were damaged in a collision at West Second and Mulberry.

Mrs. Mary Zimmerman, 57, died at her home, 339 First avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bergman, 250 Rowland avenue, were called to Philadelphia by the death of Mrs. P. Bergman's mother.

Mrs. John M. Woerth, 39 Lexington avenue, was ill at her home.

afford to talk about trade relations only because she has India and Australia to supply her with foodstuffs and other materials. So can America, because South America and Canada are there to supply her needs. Their spare energy could be entirely devoted to developing trade in China to enrich themselves. But Japan's food supply and raw materials decrease in proportion to her population. * * * A more dangerous factor is the fact that the people of China might some day wake up."

On the opposite hand, pointed out Premier Tanaka, if the Japanese succeed in placing "China's entire resources at our disposal, we shall proceed to conquer India, the Archipelago, Asia Minor, central Asia and even Europe."

FEAR OF CHINA
The premier frankly expressed his fears of Chinese progress.

"Our best policy," he reasoned, "lies in the direction of taking positive steps to secure rights and privileges in Manchuria and Mongolia. These will enable us to develop our trade. This will not only forestall China's own industrial development, but also prevent the penetration of European powers (meaning America likewise)."

"This is the best policy possible."

CHINESE TOO SHREWD
The premier's memorandum delved into considerable history, geography and railroad builders' strategy.

This part of his argument cannot be discussed in detail—too long, complicated, technical and difficult for an outsider to understand without a deal of study.

Some of it is funny, nevertheless.

Premier Tanaka freely recognizes that the Chinese are better business men than the Japanese. He wants the Chinese handicapped to offset their financial talent.

"Although," said his memorandum, "they (the Chinese) have no scientific knowledge of exchange values * * * they always gain in transactions. They have a natural gift for it. We suffer." Accordingly the premier advocates the employment of "Japanese advisers, (in China) to help us gain supremacy in financial matters."

"BELGIUM OF FAR EAST"
The Tanaka memorandum concluded: "Manchuria and Mongolia are the Belgium of the Far East."

"In the Great War, Belgium was the battlefield."

"In our wars with Russia and the United States, we must make Manchuria and Mongolia suffer the ravages."

Health Advice

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

Prolong Life by Health Tests.

DR. THOMAS PARRAN, surgeon general of the United States public health service, recently made an interesting statement. He said that if all persons took advantage of the present available medical knowledge, the average length of human life could be stretched another 10 years. The doctor pointed out that in the last 80 years the average expectation of the life of man has increased from 33 to 61 years, and of woman from 40 to 64 years.

All public health officials agree with Doctor Parran that many years could be added to the life expectancy if certain precautions were taken by the lay public. Unfortunately, too few persons realize that the human machine requires constant care and attention. Too often the body is abused beyond the limits of endurance, and only after serious damage has resulted is medical attention sought.

There are many persons who take great pride in saving they have not been sick for many years and perhaps for an equally number of years have never consulted the doctor. Little do they realize that organic disturbances may be present without their being aware of it. Neglect means chronic disorder and permanent disability.

Examinations Needed.
I have always stressed the need, the absolute necessity for periodical health examinations. This procedure has been especially emphasized for the young and growing child. But it is equally valuable for the adult. It is even more important for the middle-aged individual who is subject to certain of the so-called degenerative diseases.

Not so long ago I pointed out that there has been an alarming increase in the number of the chronic degenerative diseases of middle age. This is the result of negligence, and failure to obtain needed medical care. These ailments can be escaped by periodic health examinations.

Undoubtedly many persons avoid consulting with the doctor because of fear they will be told they are sufferers from serious ailments. This is a foolish attitude to assume. One cannot escape danger by hiding like the ostrich. It is best to know about any physical weakness that exists and thus avoid undue strain and damage.

Occasionally an individual avoids the doctor for fear of the "knife." Many persons still believe that doctors are anxious to "cut." Let me assure you that no operation is performed by the good surgeon unless it is absolutely needed. If surgery is advised never delay.

How It Started
—By JEAN NEWTON
"Dollar"—From "An Old Bohemian Piece of Money."

Facts are facts, relatives are relatives, and what we like to describe as the "Almighty Dollar" is, figuratively speaking, just another branch of the monetary tree that, planted 400-odd years ago in a light corner of old Europe, grew and spread into Spain, Mexico, Canada, South America and our own U. S. A.

"Dollar" is an abbreviation of Joachimsthaler, the name of a piece of money coined about the year 1518 in the valley of St. Joachim, in what was known as Bohemia, but which may now (these things change so quickly on the other side) be part of Czechoslovakia.

An interesting cognate of "dollar" is the Anglo-Saxon dæl ("dale") as well as the German thal, valley, all of them possibly being rooted in the Sanscrit dhara, depth.

Keeping Step
By LESLIE EICHEL
"Anti-Communist" Pact One of Aggression.

FINALLY it has dawned on American citizens that the so-called "anti-Communist" pact of Italy-Germany-Japan is nothing less than a treaty of aggression which is aimed at the United States also.

The three nations bound by the pact—and known as the aggressor states of this age—now openly assert they will try to include as much of Latin America as possible in their group.

And Italy openly declares that the American fleet in the Far Pacific is no match for the Japanese fleet, that Japan easily could take the Philippines.

We thus see that the pact means, if it means anything, that Japan shall have a free hand not only in its inroads against China and Russia, and possibly France (French Indo-China) in Asia, but against the United States in the Philippines and—who knows?—perhaps against the Aleutian Islands, off northwestern Alaska toward Japan, likewise.

It means that Italy may have a free hand in Spain, in the Balearic Islands, along the whole of the Mediterranean to the embassage of Great Britain and France.

And it means that Germany may have a free hand in continental Europe, to overrun Czechoslovakia, to go on down the Danube into Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, Greece and on to the golden horn, and likewise to threaten the Soviet Union in an effort to bulldoze it into surrendering raw materials.

This pact of aggression covers more territory than any previous pact of its kind in history. It out-Napoleons Napoleon. And therein lies its weakness. Anything that takes in such wide territory, arouses the fear and antagonism of millions who hitherto have been smug.

All this is playing directly into the hands of the big navy people in the United States. A new naval bill is due. Yet, we undoubtedly are thankful for the large addition to the fleet that President Roosevelt already has put through. The world is arming mad—and we have joined the madness. Otherwise, the mad men soon would have us at their mercy.

But, the chances are, no armaments will be needed to combat the Fascist pact. The three promulgating nations have much different and diverse interests, that they cannot stand together long. Their own greed, and their own financial collapse, probably will stop them.

But as the Soviet Union and France stand alone on their side of the world, so, too, does the United States stand alone on this side. No one ever knows which way Britain, under a Tory government, will jump.

TODAY IS—
Thursday, Nov. 11, Martinmas—calendar day of St. Martin of Tours; the 19th Armistice day in U. S.; Remembrance day in Canada; Statehood day in Washington—48th anniversary of its admission as the 42nd state. Member of the 42nd of American Red Cross begins. Moon: first quarter.

WHITHER BRITAIN?
Fascism would not have gained the headway that it has if Great Britain had been unwavering. But the British Tory government is dominated by pro-Fascist industrialists. They now have got the British nation into a pretty pickle, much to the amusement of Mussolini and Hitler.

Britain, to save business, has lost prestige and position, and now has to take insult after insult until her rearmament is completed.

But even yet her government wavers. No nation places faith in her any longer. France feels deserted. Russia is grimly determined to stand alone.

Loyalist Spain long ago recognized her as an untrustworthy friend, a "friend" who now gives virtual de facto recognition to the Fascists who continue to pull the lion's tail.

Americans suddenly begin to wonder whether the defense of Madrid isn't a defense of the United States, too—the defense of any democracy.

Fascist victory anywhere is a threat against all democracies.

NAVIES
The Italian taunt that the Japanese navy is better than the American may be accepted at its face value only to this extent—the Japanese navy could get to the Philippines sooner. But the Philippines have been well fortified.

And the American fleet is being increased second only to the British fleet. The United States also has the wealth to build the greatest naval and air fleet in the world. Japan without British or American credit soon would have to stop building.

But, the chances are, no armaments will be needed to combat the Fascist pact. The three promulgating nations have much different and diverse interests, that they cannot stand together long. Their own greed, and their own financial collapse, probably will stop them.

But as the Soviet Union and France stand alone on their side of the world, so, too, does the United States stand alone on this side. No one ever knows which way Britain, under a Tory government, will jump.

Listen, World!
—By ELSIE ROBINSON

Should the State Safeguard Your Health?

IF YOU have a sick cow in your herd, a blight in your orchard or an invasion of strange insects, the county inspector will drop around, look things over, give you free advice. For the State realized long ago that sick animals and plants are a menace, not only to the individual owner, but to the livestock everywhere within its borders.

In fact, the State doesn't wait for sickness to develop in your farmyard or fields. Experts wait at the state line, at all harbors, to investigate the incoming plants and animals...to safeguard public health and property against peril.

BUT SUPPOSE YOU HAVE A CHILD SICK ON HIS FEET? DOES THE STATE SAFEGUARD THAT CHILD'S HEALTH? DOES IT EXAMINE THE MOTHER'S CONDITION BEFORE THE CHILD IS BORN? PERIODICALLY INVESTIGATE THE SURROUNDINGS IN WHICH THAT CHILD IS REARED? TEST THE FOOD IT EATS? HASTEN TO ITS SIDE IF IT BE TAKEN ILL?

Ah, that's a different story! But why is it a different story? Is not a child infinitely more precious to the State than a guinea pig or heifer, a peach tree or a field of corn?

Is not a sick father or mother infinitely more expensive, in heart-break as well as hard cash, than a sick hog?

And if it is the duty of the State to safeguard the health of its livestock, has it not an incomparably greater responsibility for the health of its individual citizens?

One hundred and twenty million Americans are asking these questions. They are asking them because human health has become so valuable and so expensive, in these hard-driven days, that the average pocketbook is unable to provide the wherewithal for its upkeep. "Old Doc," of sainted memory, can no longer cope with the situation. His methods are as antiquated—in the face of scientific discovery—as the hand plough or spinning wheel. A tremendous outlay is needed to keep America well. Who's going to provide the outlay?

In a recent debate at Purdue University, two famous physicians debated this question of State Medicine. Drs. Morris Fishbein and C. Dudley Saul. Speaking in favor of such service, Dr. Saul laid aside all complicated, scientific mumbo-jumbo...got down to brass tacks...made statements as inescapable as these: every citizen that only the very wealthy and the very poor receive good medical service, nor is it always available to the poor unless they are actually destitute.

"In dentistry, matters are worse. Careful dental work is obtainable only by the wealthy...In Philadelphia alone, according to Dr. Walter Cornell of the Philadelphia public health schools, there are 17,000 school children with defective permanent molar teeth for lack of dental care. Again, a study of maternal deaths

Each year a group of his pals meets at lunch and journeys to his crypt, where one of the pilgrims makes a speech. Last year it was Gene Buck. This year George M. Cohan, whose extemporaneous talk was largely quotations from his own philosophy as once expressed in his play, "Pigeons and People"—so long as man lives in the memory of his friends he is not dead, as there is something touching about these services for Sime, who was, like his mourners, "a hard boiled guy." In the wind or the rain they stand, heads bared and bowed, and walk away misty eyed.

The Steel Dividend.
Coming as a hopeful note amid the multiplying reports of a recession in business is the news that for the first time since 1932 United States Steel has declared a dividend on common stock.

Of course this represents a legacy from the prosperity which this basic industry enjoyed some months back, rather than a reflection of the current trend in steel operations—which is downward—but it is heartening just the same. It indicates confidence on the part of steel leaders that business generally will recover and that the stock market losses of the past few weeks are not a reliable indication of another serious depression.

Steel is often accepted by other business as a barometer of prosperity or the reverse. Everyone, of course, will hope that the first common stock dividend in more than five years points to an early recovery from the discouraging slump which industry is currently struggling to combat.—Columbus Dispatch.

Java Also to Be Covered by Joint American Expedition in Lengthy 'Man Hunt.'

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — A "man hunt" which will cover many of the lesser known portions of Asia began this month when two internationally-known scientists sailed from New York in search of further evidence of ancient man's origin.

Dr. Hellmut deTerra, associate curator of geology and paleontology of the Academy of Natural Sciences here, and Dr. Hallam Movius, of the Peabody Museum of Harvard University, will establish a base at Mandalay in Northern Burma, for an expedition that will carry them 25,000 miles in their quest. The expedition is sponsored by the two institutions.

In operation with the Burma division of the Geological Survey of India, the expedition will search for fossils of prehistoric man and animals in the gravels along the banks of the Irrawaddy river.

Frenchman Helps. They will be joined Dec. 1 by Pierre Teilhard de Chardin, French Jesuit scientist famous internationally as the co-discoverer of the "Peking Man."

With him the two Americans will make two field trips into the north above Myitkyna, which lies at the foot of the Chinese Alps, near the wastes of Tibet, in an effort to learn the role played by geological events and climatic changes that occurred in southeastern Asia during the process of human evolution.

An airplane then will carry the expedition to Singapore and Bandong, Java, where it will be joined by Dr. Ralph von Koenigswald in exploration of new sites along the Solo river where the latter discovered last year the skull of what is believed the world's oldest human—a 700,000-year-old baby.

Dr. deTerra particularly is interested in the explorations in Java because of the likelihood that an ancient land bridge may have existed between Malaya and the Asiatic continent which would shed further light on early human migrations between India and Java.

The final scene of Dr. deTerra's field work will be the coastal plain near Manila in the Philippines, which reportedly is rich with fossils.

The first recorded Chinese immigrants to the United States arrived in 1849 in San Francisco.

THE STATE vs. ELNA JEPSON

CHAPTER XII

Roger leaned forward. Elna's fingers were clasped in his strong, steady ones.

"My dear, you are right!" he cried jubilantly. "I do love you, dear child. But we can't quite lose our heads and adopt an all-or-nothing policy. But the happiest hours of my life are spent here with you. I didn't want to have to give them up. Maybe I was testing you just a little—or maybe testing myself."

Pride rushed through Elna like a flame. She had done the right thing—the thing she really wanted. And because of that decision, she could still help him, make him happy.

For the first time, leaning from chair to chair, they kissed. Elna felt the firmness of his lips, the hardness of his cheeks cupped in her hands.

"We can keep what we have!" she asked, concealing the timidity of the question.

"I'd like to," Roger began, and leaped to his feet at the sound of the buzzer.

"It isn't possible. No one, no one knows where I live. It can't matter. It can't!"

"Better answer it anyway," Roger advised. "Probably just a solicitor."

Elna pressed the buzzer and held the door of her apartment open. Galloping feet came up the stairs.

"Hello, there! Sherlock Holmes in person! Do I get a welcome or a kick?"

"Certainly never a kick, Curtis. The curiosity of a cat—or a Dr. Watson." Cold anger swept through Elna. Anger is always a handicap, her father had said. "It muddles the waters of reason"—she remembered that. Glancing behind her, she saw that Roger had not stirred.

"Won't you come in?" she asked. Trapped. Found. Trapped. The unspoken words beat a tattoo in her mind.

"Have you met Mr. Ainsworth, Mr. Graham?" She would not give Curtis the satisfaction of a question as to how he had traced her.

Roger took command of the situation. "Oh, yes, we've met. How do you do, Graham? Miss Jepson was kind enough to invite me over after work for a drink and a smoke. Won't you join us?"

Curtis blushed. The thing he had planned to do, for Elna's sake, seemed suddenly childish in Roger's presence. Perhaps Elna would never forgive him. If so, that would have to be that. His heavy shoulders shrugged unconsciously, but the gesture did not escape Elna's wide, intent eyes.

"The kid's scared," Curtis decided instantly. "She's scared, and holding herself together. Maybe it's worse than I thought. Here goes!"

Roger held out a cigarette case to Curtis and flicked his lighter open. For an instant, watching Roger's face above the lighter, Curtis wondered whether the older man was secretly laughing at him. He turned abruptly to Elna. All the habitual gaiety was gone from his face.

"Yes, Mr. Sherlock Holmes?" she answered his glance. Her smile was half-mocking, half-appealing. She was frightened no longer. After all, she had yanked Curtis' hair in childhood scuffles, and in those days he had always played fair. Her anger vanished with her fear.

"This isn't just a social call," Curtis said soberly. He turned to Roger. "Miss Jepson did not care to have me know her present address, but I'm a rather old friend. I happened to be passing by, and recognized your car, so I came up."

"It isn't my apartment, after all." Roger's dark eyes were smiling. "Mine was, as you say, your isn't, a social call. Am I in the way?"

Elna leaned back in her winged chair. In Roger's efficient hands she was safe. But how had Curtis found her? Why had he come?

"Not at all," she heard Curtis say through the dim fog that began to envelop her. "I was looking for you."

"Well, I'm usually to be found either at my office or my home. Anything special?"

"Yes." In face of Roger's composure, Graham's discomfort made him wriggle like a small boy caught in a foolish act. Then he blurted, "I'm a nut! Honest Elna, I wasn't hunting you out, though it looks like it. But that doesn't matter." Elna had not given him so much as a glance when he turned to her.

"It's like this," he continued painfully, wishing he were somewhere else than in this quiet room. He might have to hurt Elna. She would stand it. But could he stand it?

"It's like this," he repeated, rising and facing Roger. "I'm doubtless a fool. But Mrs. Ainsworth is looking for you. I've brought the grub."

"What in heaven's name are you talking about? You always did leave out three-fourths of your sentences!" Elna's eyes gleamed with humor.

"Like this," he said for the third time. "I told Mrs. Ainsworth that I had invited Elna and the two of you to my launch for a picnic. You had to work late, Mr. Ainsworth, I know. I told her that I had got in touch with you. You tried to telephone her, I am sure, but she was out at a friend's house 'playing bridge. So she's waiting for you. It's a rather quick invitation, I know, but the duck season is on, and a friend of mine let me have two pair. If you can come, you can pick up your wife and I'll drive Elna. Would you care for that? Mrs. Ainsworth accepted provided you call for her. She missed you at your office."

For one wild moment Elna thought that Curtis had lost his mind. All this simply could not have happened. She quizzed Curtis' eyes, but they were fixed on the floor.

"Mrs. Ainsworth and I will accept with pleasure. It's been years since we've had wild duck," Roger was saying. "I'll go by for her at once. Lucky you happened to notice my car. I was working late, as you say—in fact, I'd only just arrived when you came. The office switchboard was closed."

For an instant Elna hesitated. She did not ever want to see Holly again. She was tired. Other times on Curtis' grubby little launch had been fun. But not tonight, not with Holly there as Roger's wife, not with her acute sense of annoyance at Curtis' unwarranted invasion. After all, it was not Curtis' business to chase Holly Ainsworth's husband for her invent an engagement that hadn't existed, invade her own precious privacy.

"I think—" she began, rising from her chair.

"I think you'll need a coat. Run and get it and we'll be on our way." Curtis pushed her almost rudely toward the bedroom. "We'll doubtless get there first ordered. "They'll be here any minute. Might as well get things started."

Curtis had pushed his last duck into the inadequate oven as Holly Ainsworth came through the half-open door to find them dodging, mock-teasing with paring knife and kitchen fork, just as Elna shouted a triumphant "touché."

"Oh!" The icy monosyllable shocked them both into immobility. "Is this a—fight?"

"No," Elna answered gently. "Just playing around. It's a way we have among the lower classes. Come in."

Holly's velvet evening wrap over a black chiffon dinner dress and Holly's appraising glance at the oilcloth table top and the onion skins littering the floor reduced Curtis' beloved "ark" to bohemia, if not the slums.

"May I take your coat?" Curtis, shirt sleeves rolled to the elbows, still unconsciously waving the fork, inquired.

"Thanks. Roger will attend to it. How cute and odd!" Holly exclaimed. "You know, I thought it was going to be something like a yacht! But I slipped on the gangplank, and then found our host and hostess fighting with kitchen utensils."

Elna saw Curtis' lower lip catch between his teeth. He loved his "ark" more than anything else. He turned back to inspect the ducks.

"It isn't in the least like a yacht. Mr. Graham will be sorry for your disappointment. Meanwhile, I am afraid I have to work as scullery maid, chief cook and bottle washer. Do you mind? It's rather fun, if it's the sort of thing you like, and you aren't afraid of germs. We spilled all the celery on the wharf and picked it up again, to stuff the ducks."

"I suppose I can stand anything," Holly said, "so long as it is my husband's idea of a good time."

Roger had found a chair, sat silently smoking. His eyes carefully avoided Elna's.

Curtis romped in with the platters, singing the "Star-Spangled Banner" off key. The ducks were 18-minutes perfect, with their garnishing of red currant jelly, their wild rice accompaniment, their stuffing of celery and onion, the French bread, hot and buttered, in the middle of the table.

"Would you mind opening the burgundy, Mr. Ainsworth?" he asked. "I'll find you a cork-screw." The two men retired for the corkscrew hunt.

"Of course I hate these raw animals," Holly Ainsworth's face, fierce and predatory, was close to Elna's. "And this dirty place—how can you stand it?"

WINS SUIT FOR COMPENSATION

Mansfielder Granted Right to Participate in State Fund as Result of Kin's Death.

Ruling yesterday in a case against the Ohio Industrial commission, Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston granted Charles Tschants, Mansfield, the right to participate in industrial compensation for the accidental death of his brother, Clyde, four years ago.

The court at the same time dismissed an action seeking compensation which was filed by Glean Tschants, also a brother of the accident victim.

Claims filed with the Industrial commission following the accident were refused on the grounds that neither of the brothers was a dependant of the victim, who was electrocuted in September, 1933, while in the employ of the City of Shelby. The court ruling specified that the commission pay the plaintiff's attorney fees on the basis of 20 per cent of the first $500 awarded, and 10 per cent of the remainder with the total fees not to exceed $500.

Between November 1933 and December 1936 nearly $114,000,000 in federal government funds was spent for the construction and improvement of recreation areas in the various states.

Floods Decrease Fur Production In Yukon Sector

SEWARD, Alaska—(AP)—Upland game and fur-bearing animals inhabiting the Yukon river country suffered setbacks by recent floods that will require years to adjust. Frank Dufresne, executive officer of the Alaska Game Commission and regional director of the Biological Survey, said.

The animals were driven back 50 miles, Dufresne estimated, and he said it was impossible to estimate losses suffered. Full damage done at the time of the floods is now being made known. He said it would be felt in the season's trappings. The Alaska game commission head returned from the districts affected with information that attitude of the people toward conservation of game had undergone radical change in the past 10 years.

People are becoming more and more interested in the conservation movement, Dufresne said.

impressed with her beauty. . . . Offered her a screen test, but she refused unless the other three were given a test also. . . . Struck by such unusual loyalty, Zanuck agreed. . . . Results: he signed the quartet, and the best part of it is that their options have been taken up. . . . They'll have small roles in "Sally, Irene and Mary."

In Western Role.

Gilbert Roland, whose screen career is picking up again after a decided let down for several years, plays a dashing Westerner in "Thunder Trail," which the Madison offers Friday and Saturday. In the story of an ambushed wagon trail of California gold. He is one of two boys who survive a massacre. One of the boys is adopted by the leader of the renegades and the other by a Mexican. Years later they meet and unite forces to exterminate the man who killed their father. Charles Bickford plays the renegade, and Marsha Hunt provides heart interest.

Herbert Is Wrecked.

Herbert Marshall, debonair English actor, who has played opposite most of the "glamor" ladies of the screen, has a rather hectic time of it with Barbara Stanwyck in "Breakfast For Two." She sends his business into bankruptcy, buys it away from him, breaks up two attempted marriages for him, gives him a black eye, and marries him against his will. But it makes for entertainment. Eric Blore gives one of his priceless butler characterizations and Glenda Farrell is an attractive gold digger with a flair for comedy. The romantic comedy opens at the Ohio today for the remainder of the week.

Refreshing Story.

"Federal Bullets," booked for the Majestic for the last two days of the week, has a cast of little known players, but makes up for it in the freshness of the plot and rapid action. A G-man is sent out of town to investigate an organization called "The League for Human Justice." It is headed by a gentle old lady with humanitarian interest in her fellow men. The federal man gets a position in her organization, and makes startling discovery, which leads to a thrilling chase between the federal man and an escaped murderer. The second feature is Tex Ritter in "Tex Rides With The Boy Scouts."

unday is an unusual story of two young people, grating from college who find that the chances are all against them for making enough money to secure their future. The boy, in a humble position in a bank, and the girl plan to steal $100,000 from the bank, hide it away and serve their prison sentences. At least, they believe, when their sentences are over, they'll have more money than they could save in a lifetime. The troubles that beset them in working out this plan, make an unusual and interesting story. Richard Cromwell and Helen Mack are in the leads. William Boyd is a Hopalong story is the second feature.

'SEA MOUNTIES' OUT OF ARCTIC AFTER 2 YEARS

Ice-Blocked Areas Patrolled By Nine Policemen and Husky Dog.

VANCOUVER, B. C.—After more than two years patrol duty in the Arctic Circle, the sturdy vessel St. Roch, floating contingent of the Royal Canadian mounted police, returned here carrying nine men and a black husky dog.

The battered 140-foot police boat will remain here until next June, when another patrol will sail for the Arctic regions.

Commander of the vessel during its long trip into the frozen north was Sgt. H. A. Larsen, considered one of the most efficient Arctic skippers.

The St. Roch left Vancouver in June, 1935. Since that time, the men aboard the ship—forsaking civilization—had seen many strange sights. The boat anchored at Cambridge Bay, west of King William Island, more than 3,000 miles from here.

Using the bay as a base, the police patrolled ice-bound areas for miles in every direction.

Police Collect Taxes.

Work of the mounties is devoted to collecting taxes, issuing hunting licenses and in various ways carrying into the regions of the north the laws of the Canadian government.

One of the men away from the ship, doing patrol, for 45 days, but the men said that was unusual.

"Usual patrol duty is for a two weeks' period," police aboard the ship said.

"We like it up there," Sgt. J. W. Eddy, in command of the men, said.

"We had very little trouble. We found friendship and co-operation everywhere we went. In the winter we'd freeze in and prepare for a long siege."

"On our way outside we were held up a little by the ice breakup, coming through Beaufort Sea and Admussen Gulf. We were forced back 60 miles," he said.

The St. Roch is a sturdy, comfortable ship, powered by a 50-horsepower motor. There is a compartment stern housing four bunks, a table, large iron stove and all necessary equipment of a northern sailing ship. Elsewhere on the boat are accommodations for the rest of the crew.

The big husky dog, Blackie, seemed to dislike the Vancouver warmth on arrival here and tried at all times to snuggle into shade aboard the boat.

The men expressed amazement at the trend in the streamlining of motor cars.

GIANT POLISH BALLOON BUILT TO SOAR 20 MILES IN STRATO

ZURICH—AP—The Polish balloon plant at Legionowo is building a revolutionary type stratosphere balloon designed to safely reach a record height of 20 miles, it was revealed here by Major M. Masurek, director of the plant.

It is planned that the ascent take place in 1938 between July and September from near the village of Ofcow, near Cracovia.

Polish army officers may pilot the novel craft.

The balloon will be of gigantic dimensions, far larger than any yet constructed for this purpose.

The balloon Prof. Auguste Piccard used in 1931 and 1932 for the first flights into the stratosphere had a volume of 14,100 cubic meters; the Polish giant will have 120,000 cubic meters when fully inflated.

The balloons later used by Americans and Russians to beat Piccard's record (the present record is about 14 miles) were much larger than Piccard's bag, but were being compared to the one now being built.

The Polish balloon is really two balloons—one of only 4,000 cubic meters capacity and a diameter of 24 meters superimposed upon and connected with a bigger bag of 116,000 cubic meter capacity and a diameter of 60 meters. For the ascent of the first few thousand feet, the upper balloon will be filled with hydrogen gas and the lower balloon will be trailed under it, empty with the aerial airtight car suspended below both.

With increasing altitude, the hydrogen will expand and escape, through a special valve, into the lower bag, eventually filling it. This procedure will greatly lessen the dangers during take-off, since a light balloon of such huge proportions as to be almost unmanageable on the ground would be necessary to reach an altitude of 20 miles. The slightest breath of air would almost certainly wreck a balloon this size, fully inflated on the ground. To the hermetically sealed metal car in the Polish craft will be attached a giant parachute, in which it is hoped the observers would be able to descend safely should an accident occur.

READY TO GO 'OVER THE TOP'—Made by a Japanese photographer, this picture shows Japanese troops in trench outside Shanghai.

Japs Weigh Decision for March on China's Capital

NANKING DRIVE RESTS ON FOE, NIPPONESE SAY

Chinese Leader Holds Decision on Whether War's to Last, Japanese Declare.

SHANGHAI (AP)—Japanese, driving mercilessly against Chinese troops in the Shanghai area, said today that it was up to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, China's leader, whether they would march inland to take Nanking, the national capital.

Pembroke Stephens, a correspondent for the London Daily Telegraph, was killed and two Frenchmen were seriously wounded by Japanese machine gun bullets as Japanese hemmed in Chinese "suicide squads" in the Nantao district, bordering the French concession.

Land Shock Troops. Japanese landed shock troops in the Pootung section, across the Whangpoo river from the international settlement, and sent navy boats up the river to land men in the Nantao district directly opposite.

There was fighting still in the Pootung and Nantao districts. But Gen. Iwane Matsui, Japanese army commander in chief, in an interview which was in effect a proclamation that the Japanese were masters of the city, showed plainly that he believed the present phase of operations was ended.

Matsui, asked whether his men would go on up the Yangtze river to Nanking, 235 miles from the coast, said smiling: "You had better ask Chiang Kai-shek about future developments. Chiang is reported to have predicted a five-year war. Well, it might last that long. We do not know whether to go on to Nanking or not. It depends on Chiang."

"We held off attacking the Nantao district hoping its defenses would surrender. They showed no sign of retreat and we had to go ahead. And we clean it all up in two or two."

Demands New Deal. Matsui, implying a better that foreign authorities had favored the Chinese since the beginning of the war, demanded strict neutrality and constructive co-operation from them.

He indicated clearly that he was ready to accept any terms over the international settlement and intimated that if necessary he would impose a censorship on outgoing dispatches and collect customs duties.

The day's fighting started with perhaps the heaviest bombardment of the war insofar as Shanghai proper is concerned. Japanese trained big guns on the Nantao district, which lies just south of the French concession.

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state highway patrol today refused to declare an armistice on its hunt for the slayer of Patrolman George Conn.

Col. Lynn Black, state patrol head, announced he would again question James Dalhove, surviving member of the Al Brady gang held at Indianapolis for a possible solution to the slaying of the patrolman near Freeport, Sept. 27.

Black indicated he might await the outcome of Dalhove's murder trial on charges of killing two Indiana policemen and a grocery store clerk, before again facing the slayer.

The Brady gangster, Black said, originally denied slaying Patrolman Conn although he accepted responsibility for the killing. Black said he believed Dalhove would offer additional information to the mystery should the gangster be convicted.

"We shall continue the search for the slayers indefinitely," Black asserted.

SALESMAN HELD Attempt to Peddle Horse Leads Him In Hands of Law.

A 25-year-old salesman was being held for investigation by police today after he had tried to sell a pair of silk hose to a North Main street housewife.

The woman became suspicious when the man represented himself as an agent for the Montgomery Ward company and called police. Officers said the man confessed to stealing the hose in Lima.

Brazil Calmly Accepts 'Dictatorship' Rule

Up and Down THE STREET

If pretty Irene Holcombe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Merton Holcombe, should go after a career as a model, the chances are she would make a success of it. Posing as the "Greatest Mother in the World" in the Red Cross pageant at the Westinghouse auditorium last night, she remained in a statuesque pose for more than five minutes, while the high school band, drum and bugle corps—under the direction of her father—played patriotic music.

It was at this same annual Roll Call dinner that a well-known Mansfield minister slyly slipped a nickel into the mechanical music box in the Westinghouse auditorium and won his easy, a beautiful shade of "rust" when there came, startlingly loud, the gay music of "How Dry I Am."

Has someone missed a pet dog since last Sunday? A small terrier, obviously a pet because its toe nails were carefully manicured, was struck by a car on Bowman street Sunday, and several bones broken. Mrs. C. T. Hancock, 1 Constance court, took the dog to a veterinarian where it was treated. She said the owner can claim the animal by calling at her home.

He came—he saw—he was conquered. M. E. K. Bates, Mansfield's police chief, went to the Optimist club luncheon yesterday and reminded to become a member of the club. The chief was invited to tell members of the things he had learned at J. Edgar Hoover's National Police academy in Washington last summer. After his speech he was invited to become a member of the luncheon club and accepted.

Katherine Wick Kelley, Cleveland actress, whose tragic death this week shocked Mansfield friends, had been identified with the Mansfield Community Players in the earlier years of the organization. She came here from the Cleveland Playhouse to direct two plays, "Wappin' Wharf," and "The Cassilis Engagement." For a time she conducted a class in voice here, and played the role of "Mollie" when the Playhouse presented it here at Senior high school auditorium.

GETS $18,637

County Receives Monthly Sales Tax Allocation.

The Richland county treasury was enriched today by $18,637 from the state auditor in a monthly distribution of sales taxes revenues, according to Deputy County Auditor Arthur S. Beck.

Included in the amount is $14,212 for general operating expenses of local governments and $4,425 for the county relief fund.

The relief allotment, designated by the state for relief bonds, will be used here for direct relief purposes, Beck said, because the county has no sufficient amount for its bond interest and payments.

The allocation for local governments boosted the county's undivided fund to $38,903, representing three monthly distributions by the state, Beck declared.

The entire amount will be allocated to the county and its subdivisions within the next week, he said.

BERNSTEIN MUST GO TO PRISON

Former Treasurer's Deputy Loses Fight to Escape Sentence.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Counsel for Al Bernstein indicated today that the former chief deputy Cuyahoga county treasurer had no other recourse than to serve a term of one to ten years in the Ohio state penitentiary after the state supreme court late yesterday refused his appeal from conviction of embezzling $476,683.17 of treasury funds.

As soon as the supreme court's mandate is received here, probably in the next day or two, it will be given to deputy sheriffs as an order to take Bernstein to the penitentiary in Columbus.

Among other opinions handed down by the court was one upholding the right of Withrow high school in Cincinnati to refuse admission to Woodlawn students because of crowded conditions at Withrow.

FARM BUREAU STAFF RENAMED

R. L. Smith to Serve Again as Board Chairman; One New Board Member.

With the exception of one director, the Richland county Farm bureau re-elected its entire staff of officers last night at the annual meeting at the First Methodist church.

R. L. Smith, Springfield township, will head the board of directors; chairman for another year, with M. E. Fisher of Jefferson township, re-elected vice president, and Miss Mary Granly, Weller township, secretary.

The only change was in the board of women directors, where Mrs. George Barnes of Jackson township was elected to succeed Mrs. C. F. Will, Jefferson township, who resigned. The other member of the women's board is Mrs. J. R. Lawrence, Washington township.

Named as delegates from the county to the state Farm bureau convention in Columbus Nov. 18-19 were Smith, Miss Granly, J. R. Lawrence and Mrs. George Arter.

The principal speaker at the session was H. W. Smoots, Columbus, head of the sales and promotion division of the state Farm bureau, who talked on "The Future Outlook for Farmers." His talk was concerned chiefly with the work of Farm bureau co-operatives as they pertain to the farmer.

Brief talks were made by Wilbur Faust, manager of the new Farm bureau co-operative creamery at Shelby, and Miss Phyllis Snyder, of Worthington township, who reported on the organization of a youth council in the county.

Musical numbers for the program were played by Misses Maryena and Janice Hershey, accordionists.

PRESIDENT GETS BROAD POWERS THROUGH COUP

Federal and State Legislative Branches Dissolved Under New Constitution.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—President Getulio Vargas ruled Brazil today under sweeping dictatorial powers unequalled in the western hemisphere.

Outwardly, this largest of South American nations seemed to have accepted calmly the political coup which abolished Brazil's democratic form of government and set up in its stead one modeled in many respects after the corporate system employed by totalitarian European nations.

Private sources in Buenos Aires, capital of neighboring Argentina, indicated that though Vargas himself said was inspired in part by fear of armed revolution.

Point Out Opposition. (Private sources in Buenos Aires, capital of neighboring Argentina, indicated that though Vargas had complete military support, there was considerable—of inactive—civilian opposition to his bloodless coup.)

By the decree powers with which he had ruled largely since 1935, Vargas yesterday dissolved federal and state legislative bodies and proclaimed a new constitution with corporate, authoritarian trimmings.

The new constitution was put into effect immediately and a presidential manifesto declared the new regime would suspend payment of all government debts abroad.

Within 24 hours Vargas was expected to decree reduction of the export tax, on "bottles and effect" other measures to carry out his policy of abandoning export price control over this principal Brazilian product.

President today declined the joint resignation of his cabinet. Both the resignation and Vargas' declination were considered formalities dictated by the replacement of the "liberal" 1934 constitution.

Members of the Brinkerhoff school P. T. A. heard a travel talk by Harold W. Arlin, president of the Mansfield board of education, at a meeting last night at the school.

Arin told his Mediterranean cruises last summer and used motion pictures to illustrate his lecture.

A communication from Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, emphasizing the importance of immunization of pupils against small pox and diphtheria, was read to the group. Dr. F. O. Eckstein, president of the P. T. A., was in charge of the meeting.

The musical program included two harp solos by Mrs. Joy A. Herbert.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

Will Congress Co-operate? THE QUESTION is asked whether the congress to convene on Monday will follow the president's leadership in repealing the undistributed-profits tax, modifying the capital-gains tax, holding down appropriations and ending experimentation. The answer to that question is yes—if he supplies that kind of leadership.

THERE HAS been no bigger humbuggery than the excuse so often privately used by Mr. Roosevelt in his earlier presidential days that he was unable to do this or that in which he believed, or was forced to do something else in which he did not believe, in order to prevent the "wild men" in congress from "running away with things." The idea was that the president's course was necessary to "avert revolution."

IT WAS a ridiculous idea. There never was any danger of revolution and the "wild men" in congress were never sufficiently numerous to run away with anything against a firm president, who wanted to go in the other direction. In every congress since Mr. Roosevelt came into office, as in this one, a majority of the members have been conservative at heart and neither wild nor revolutionary. The radical element, as is always the case, made a noise out of proportion to their numbers, but from the beginning the president stimulated rather than restrained them.

A POLITICAL blood brotherhood existed between him and the more pronounced radicals in congress from the start. They, rather than the regular Democrats, have been the believers in his policies, co-operated in framing them, supplied some of his more advanced ideas. There has not been a time since he became president when he could not more easily have led congress in the conservative direction than in the one he took. It followed him blindly for a number of reasons—his prestige and popularity, because he was the party leader, for reasons of patronage and White House favor, because there existed an emergency and the people were back of him.

IT HAS never been a secret, however, that his own senate leaders—the late Senator Robinson and Vice-President Garner, for example—distrusted the New Deal policies, felt that the Santa Claus game was dangerous and soon or late would make a awful mess of national affairs. Now that that time has arrived and Mr. Roosevelt, alarmed, according to his advisers, is preparing to "reassure business," stop spending and retreat from a tax policy which has proved devastating, it seems a little absurd to wonder whether congress will "co-operate."

OF COURSE it will. That is what congress wants to do, but it will not do it on the eve of a congressional election without real White House leadership. It will not do it if the White House leadership is perfunctory and feeble; if the White House incumbent is not completely determined. The reasons are plain. All members of the house and one-third of the senate must run for re-nomination and re-election next year. The "return to sanity" cannot be achieved without withdrawing government favors from large classes of voters who have been educated by the New Deal to believe they have a vested right to live on federal bounty.

TO EXPECT congressmen, on their own initiative and just ahead of an election, to cut down and tax, is a little too much to expect of politicians. But, if the initiative comes from the president, and the responsibility is taken by him, they will follow gladly because most of them want to do those things and most of them know that the time has come when they must be done, if the time has arrived when Mr. Roosevelt might use his "avert revolution" argument as an excuse to retreat and retrench with very much sounder grounds than he did for going in the other direction.

Hollywood Speaks--

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Christmas is coming, and so are the fifty little schemes of the petty racketeers who prey on the movie colony especially when Hollywood's eyes are blurred by the artificial snow that annually clouds Santa Claus Lane.

There'll be the usual number of phony perfume salesmen—offering colored water in fancy bottles—at a bargain; the usual fative deals in shining white fox fur that turn into rabbit skin the first heavy rain.

This film community has become accustomed to all sorts of badger games and petty rackets. It knows about burglary—the Gary Coopers and Hal Roach, of the jewelry store, can give fresh first-hand information; Mae West is the colony's leading authority on the hold-up (receiving end); but the major fear in these parts, in the crime line, remains the kidnaper.

More than 20 screen celebrities have received threatening letters or phone calls in the past year. In every case police guards have been assigned and usually—when extortion was attempted through the mails—the federal men have stepped in.

These precautions may explain why there have been no actual kidnappings. In fact, as police statisticians point out in their 1936-37 report, there have been no kidnappings for ransom in the entire Los Angeles community in the period.

These city statistics, assembled by Mrs. Rhoda Crow, official statistician, would seem to blow down another Hollywood legend that Hollywood is the mecca of missing small-town girls. The statistics have no department devoted to those lured here by movie glamour, unless these would come under "adventure-seekers." In this category, among 644 juvenile girls, were listed only 14. Among older women rounded up here the cause for landing in Los Angeles or Hollywood is "mental balance"—which might or might not have some connection with the movies.

"It's just a myth," Mrs. Crow says, "about girls being lured here by the movies. There has been too much publicity about the fatality of coming to Hollywood and trying to break in."

Typhoon Strikes Philippine Area, High Death Toll Feared

MANILA, P. I. (AP)—A typhoon cut through the heart of the island of Luzon tonight, spreading death and destruction along the Philippine Archipelago. Three were known dead here and 23 others were missing.

Of the missing, 26 were members of the crew of the fishing boat Perla and three were of the crew of the Malaya, another fishing craft.

The boats capsized in the heavy swells that stirred Manila bay.

Only one man was known to have escaped from the Perla. Twenty-three of the Malaya's crew were rescued.

Authorities feared the loss of life in the interior would be appalling. It was in that district that the typhoon reached its peak—through the so-called "granary of the Philippines."

Throughout the city and the islands communications were disrupted. Shipping suffered heavily.

Telephone service was hampered here and telegraph and telephone lines in the interior were blown down. Roads were washed out.

The British steamer Kouti was driven around one mile south of Pananaguan Point but it was not feeling and apparently will survive the storm.

The inter-island ship Paz broke loose from her typhoon moorings and was driven onto the beach of Engineer Island in Manila bay.

—Advice—
Jealous Girl
May Wreck
Romance

By VIRGINIA LEE
PITY THE POOR jealous person. He or she certainly is very trying to friends and especially to sweethearts. But jealous persons suffer so that one can't be hard on them. They need good course of treatment with a psychiatrist.

MAMIE loves her boy friend "terribly." That is her term and it is an apt one. It must be terrible for him and certainly is so for her. He loves her too, she is sure, but they quarrel a great deal because she cannot bear to see him pay the slightest attention to another girl—even the most casual of courtesies. Just as an example, at a skating rink the grand marshal is in progress, and was so arranged that each boy skated with every girl. Poor Mamie was upset about that and staged a battle.

"I've tried to overcome this awful thing called jealousy," she writes, "but I just can't do it. It seems like it's right on the surface and it has to pop out."

Mamie is intelligent enough, I am sure, to know that she is steadily wrecking her romance. Any man not quite dead, dumb and blind must see, after several years of companionship with such a nature, that he would be mad to marry the girl. So what is she to do?

Considered Pretty.
Mamie says she is considered pretty, but somehow, somewhere along in her life she has accumulated feelings of inferiority that cause her to distrust her power to hold the love of her sweetheart, and make loving him an agony. I wonder if Mamie is the oldest of a family of children and felt as the others came that she was no longer loved as they were. Or belongs to a family in which one child was petted and approved while Mamie felt—whether it was so or not—that she was not loved. Such childish inhibitions will do much to give a person such a phobia of jealousy.

It means a battle with yourself. Mamie. It means that you must establish confidence in yourself. You must think of your successes and put your failures resolutely out of mind. You must dwell on your boy friend's love for you. When you feel these jealous feelings coming over you, you must resolutely suppress them. Every time that you triumph over them and avoid a scene, you will be strengthened to do the same next time.

Do everything in your power to acquire skill in various lines. Make yourself an excellent dancer, a splendid skater, a happy, fun-loving companion who still can talk interestingly about various things. Go out of your way to make people like you. In that way you will feel while and so will be more confident that your sweetheart loves you.

If you could go to some one who has professional training in psychology and who would trace the source of your feeling to its beginning that would be best way to handle it. But if you can't, these suggestions of mine and a firm and earnest resolve to overcome this handicap to your happiness, should help you to win.

I should like to hear from others who have successfully battled the green-eyed monster.

Today's Recipes.
Chicken Maryland—Two medium-sized frying or broiling chickens, three tablespoons cornstarch, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Clean and disjoint chickens as for fricassee, then dust with salt, pepper and cornstarch. Heat one-half cup vegetable oil in frying pan and brown chicken quickly. Reduce heat, cover closely and cook gently or steam for 30 minutes.

Anglers' licenses were purchased by 5,832,448 persons in the United States during 1935-36, setting an all-time high. These fishermen spent $8,002,000 for licenses.

West overcalled South's opening bid of 1-Heart, with 1-Spade and North went to 2-Clubs. South rebid his hearts, North assisted and the contract ended in 4-Hearts by South.

West led the diamond 2 and South decided he could make an extra trick if West had been obliged to lead away from the diamond K. He therefore played the diamond 8 and East won with the diamond K. The spade 9 was returned and allowed to hold, but East was able to continue leading the suit with the spade 2. West overtook and cashed three spades. Had South gone up with his diamond A, he would have made the contract, for after drawing trumps, he could have tied the club finesse. As this happened to be favorable, two spades could have been tossed on the two set up clubs and the contract could have been made.

FORGET EXTRA TRICKS

Don't take a chance of letting the other fellow lead through your guarded king if there is some way to prevent it, and thereby make your contract sure. Unnecessary finesse, which might produce an overtrick if they work, but put yourself in danger of defeat if they do not, are not sound bridge.

mond A, he would have made the contract, for after drawing trumps, he could have tied the club finesse. As this happened to be favorable, two spades could have been tossed on the two set up clubs and the contract could have been made.

How should East and West defend against South's 2-No Trump contract after the lead of the spade Q?

—Beauty—
Coiffures Show Trend Upward

By GLADYS GLAD
"America's Most Famous Beauty"
According to a late cable from our Paris news' garnerer, everything is on the up and up in the world of fashion and beauty right now. Hats are perching on the tops of heads and looking tall, instead of being pancake-like slithering down over one eye or one ear. Coiffures are being influenced by that upward movement, too, hair interest being centered atop the head. And some of the new coiffures almost look as though they would wait themselves right up into the clouds at any moment!

However, modern hair styles are suited to individual types, and when a hair style is created for any individual, the shape and poise of the head, the physical proportions and carriage of the body, facial characteristics and personality must all be taken into consideration.

If you've grown tired of the sameness of your appearance—and most girls do at some time or another—why not do a bit of experimenting with your hair? Try a new coiffure and see if it doesn't make you feel like a new woman.

The most important thing that you must remember, if you decide to change your hair style, is that the coiffure you select must be suited to your own particular type. It must be becoming to you yourself, must provide an attractive frame for your face.

Design for Delicate Face.
One of the smartest of the new winter coiffures that I've seen demonstrated so far is designed especially for the girl with delicate piquant features, and it is a most becoming coiffure for an individual of this type. The hair is parted on the left and combed straight back off the forehead. A horizontal wave is then fashioned at each temple, and the hair combed behind the ears. Some fluffy ringlets are fashioned at the front of each ear for softness. Then the hair is waved flat to the head at the back and a number of small pin curls made. When the hair is combed out, these curls are brushed around the finger to form soft, horizontal curls at the nape of the neck.

Another of the new coiffures is ideal for the oval-faced type. Because it is somewhat extreme, it demands regular features. The hair is parted in the center, and waved softly back off the face and behind the ears. Very tiny tendrils of hair are then arranged in wispy ringlets, extending from each temple to each ear. Then the wave is continued around the back of the head, and the ends of the hair are fashioned into flat curls, or into a narrow roll that hugs the head from ear to ear.

Dick's command to turn out the light beside me, and to stay where I was without moving sent every nerve end tingling as I obeyed him and then stood tensely waiting in the sudden darkness. In another second he was at my side, although I heard no sound, and he slipped a reassuring arm around me.

"What is it?" I whispered.

"That's right, keep your voice down," he whispered back. "I may be mistaken, but I thought I heard something outside. I'll wait a few minutes so if there is somebody out there, he'll think we've left the kitchen, and then I'll go out and investigate."

"You'll go out there over my dead body," I whispered back fiercely, and clutched his arm frantically with both my hands.

Madge Panicky.

"Don't be idiotic," he retorted, and then, although there had been no sound of footsteps, there came a rap upon the door.

"Please don't answer!" I whispered in a panic.

"He wouldn't knock if he meant mischief," Dicky answered, and wrestling his arm free, switched on the light beside us.

"At least, keep the chain on," I pleaded, for every door of our home has a night chain.

"I'll do that little thing to please you," my husband murmured. "Stay back here."

But I found it impossible to obey that command, and I was close behind him when he unlocked the door and opened it the width of the chain, saying peremptorily:

"What's wanted?"

Stranger Harmless?

A small, weathery-looking man of perhaps 40 years stood outside the door—a nondescript, apparently harmless person who made me feel ashamed of my fears. He was no doubt a traveler who had lost his way, I told myself, but his answer to Dicky's peremptory question brought back my fears.

"Is this where Mr. Charles Spencer lives?" he drawled, and some vague nance in the utterance sent something slithering down my spine.

"It is," Dicky said laconically. "But he is asleep. You cannot see him unless it is very important."

"Who wants to see him?" the man retorted impudently. "I just want to be sure he's here, so I can deliver a note I was told to bring him. I suppose you're his daughter."

His eyes went suddenly past Dicky to me, and his voice lost its drawl.

Dicky's Anger Mounts.

"Don't answer him!" Dicky commanded without taking his eyes from the man outside. "Look here, my man, I don't like your manner or anything about you. I am Mr. Spencer's son-in-law. If you wish to give me the note you Accessories are so important this year. With plain, smart costumes, they create an air of elegance that is the essence of the season. At REED'S I snatched the last word in simple, yet distinctive purchases.

"Vergil's A.B." bag, proven to be a favorite among fashion minded women who insist upon quality! Novel in style was one called "Beau Catcher"...

As the name implies, it is decorated with a self-bow... available in calf or antelope and in black or brown... at $5 each.

Other lovely bags are priced at $5, $8, and $10. One of the most original bags had the pie-crust handle (braided leather) that stylists definitely approve. Next in importance come gloves! And what smart ones they have at REED'S! Rich, dull suedes from Baccro Postman are $3 and $4.

The Axis glove, that well deserves its excellent reputation, sells for $3, $3.50, $4, and $4.50. The styles are conservative, but chic! One pair of Van Raalte gloves rate special mention because of the unique style. A combination of dull black leather and smooth silk. The palm, sleeve, but on the back of the glove, the fingers alternate leather and cloth, strips continuing to the end of long gauntlets. These novelty gloves are $2 a pair... at REED'S.

FINISH WORK ON 14 MUSKINGUM DAMS BY JAN. 1

Engineers Say $44,000,000 Project Will Be Completed In Two Months.

NEW PHILADELPHIA. (AP)—Army engineers have reported that all construction in the $44,000,000 Muskingum conservancy district would be completed by Jan. 1. Ten of the district's 14 dams have been completed, two will be finished within a few weeks, and the others are to be ready before the new year.

The engineers also reported that relocating approximately 70 miles of railroad was almost done, and that relocation of hundreds of miles of telephone, telegraph and power lines would end in the next two months.

Some clearing of reservoir areas to be flooded permanently will be left over until next spring. For this reason, not all of the 11 permanent lakes will be filled immediately. Several, however, are to be ready for summer recreational activities. Wildlife development with the establishment of sanctuaries and feeding stations already is underway, directed by the state conservation division and the U. S. biological survey. A $68,000 federal fish nursery, the only one in Ohio, is being built below the Seneca-ville dam.

A National Youth administration conservation camp for 200 boys between the ages of 15 and 25 will be established in the abandoned Civilian Conservation Corps barracks at Schoenbrunn for development of conservation projects, including reforestation and fish and game management.

Personnel will be selected from unemployed youth throughout the state, the present plan calling for two groups of 100 each to spend alternate periods of one month in camp and at home.

During their residence at camp the young men will be tried out at a variety of jobs to determine for which each has the most ability and interest," said J. W. Penfold, state NYA conservation supervisor.

"During their month at home the facilities of NYA and the national re-employment service will be available to assist each youth in obtaining private employment at the job his camp experience has shown him fitted for."

TAPS SOUNDED OVER TOMB OF UNKNOWN HERO

Roosevelt Places Wreath on Grave at Arlington; Legion Commander Speaks.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — President Roosevelt placed a simple wreath of white chrysanthemums today upon the tomb of America's Unknown Soldier, marking the 19th anniversary of Armistice day.

No words were spoken by the president as he stood with bowed head at the white marble catafalque in Arlington cemetery where the unknown member of the American expeditionary forces is buried.

Blanked by officers of the army and navy and squads of the three branches of the armed services—army, navy and marines—Mr. Roosevelt stood at stiff attention as a bugler sounded taps.

The president led the nation in marking the memory of the end of the world war. A few minutes before 11 a. m. he left the White House and drove across the Potomac river to Arlington.

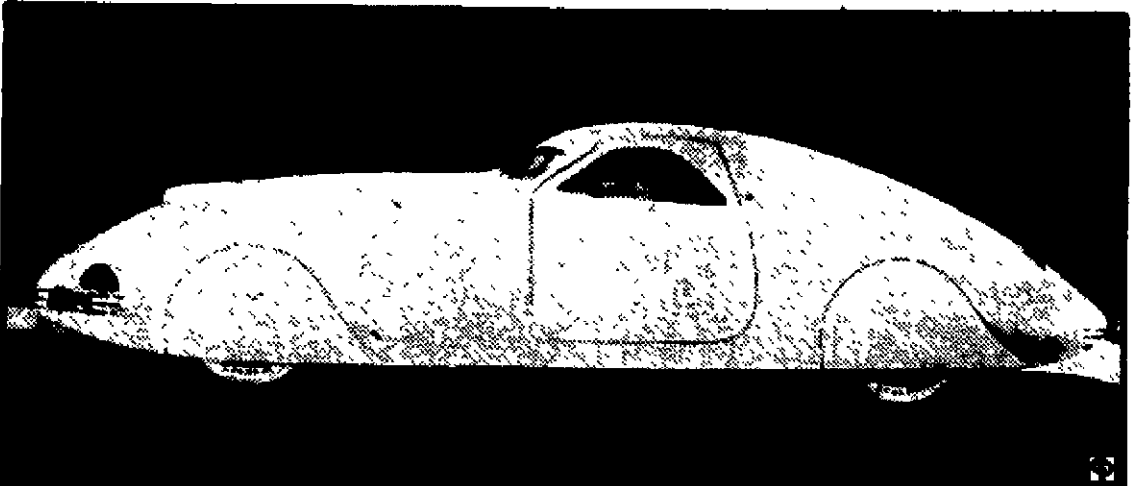

President Bows Head. At exactly 11 a. m.—the hour the armistice took effect—Mr. Roosevelt bowed his head to the brisk November wind which swept the Virginia bank of the river and stood in silence.

Beside him were Secretary of War Harry Woodring, Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson, Assistant Secretary of Navy Charles Edison and Admiral Adolphus Andrews. In the background were members of national patriotic societies.

National Commander Daniel J. Doherty of the American Legion and Johnson were principal speakers.

"This day of glorious recollection," said Doherty, "is also a day of rededication to the task of making permanent the blessings of peace."

'Super' Automobile Designed By Heinz Heir

There are at least 57 varieties of novel and unusual innovations in the new super-automobile designed and built by Heinz Heir, scion of the Heinz pickle family of Pittsburgh. The car, known as the "Phantom Corsair," has front-wheel drive, electric gear shift, four forward speeds, independently sprung wheels mounted on flexible, low-pressure tires. The car develops a speed of 122

m. p. h. with a small engine. It has neither fenders nor running board. The interior is lined throughout with sponge rubber to absorb shock. And it certainly "looks different!"

of making permanent the blessings of peace. "Each new anniversary but brings to us more vividly the realization of the utility of war. It spurs us to renewed determination that our sons and daughters shall never know an America involved in war if we in honor can prevent it."

"The American people treasure peace. We covet not one inch of territory of any other nation. We do not seek one penny of any other nation's treasure."

Doherty said the Legion would press its drive for enactment of measures providing for equal drafting of men and capital in war time, abolition of profits from war, adequate national defense and rigid enforcement of neutrality.

BALL HELD HERE. The annual pre-Armistice day ball of the Ashland American Legion post was held in the Blue room of the Wonder Bar last night. Forty couples attended. Music was furnished by Dale Stevens' orchestra.
